

Abstract of the Disclosure

Optical integrated circuits are disclosed in which a polarization swapping portion is formed in a portion of a waveguide using polarized light from a laser. Also disclosed are methods for fabricating optical integrated circuits and for mitigating polarization dependence in optical integrated circuits.

10003885.102501